Dear Dennis:

Every day, law enforcement organizations across the country are inundated with photographic and video evidence in criminal investigations.

Now, for the first time, multiple agencies can share their mugshots and use NEC's #1 NIST ranked algorithm – benefiting the criminal investigation with faster facial evidence processing and the ability to rapidly generate a list of investigative leads. NEC's NeoFace® WideNet hosted service reduces the time spent investigating cases that have still images or facial video evidence, thus decreasing an investigator's caseload and leading to quicker case resolution.

To learn more about how other agencies are leveraging our facial recognition solutions to solve cases and produce leads, we invite you to watch this short video.
